The conference

Following the success of the first twelve NewGenGold conferences, the thirteenth of this series remains unerringly focussed on the discovery case histories of the world’s most recent gold mines or soon to be gold mines.

A programme of sixteen, 45-minute papers will be presented over two days, each addressing the “where, why and how” of the process leading up to the more important discoveries from around the world.

Case histories of discovery are highly motivational for gold explorers at all levels and we are confident the quality of the programme will attract the interest of chief executives, exploration managers and technical directors, as well as exploration and mine geologists.

NewGenGold attracts multiple registrations from individual companies and organisations, representing all levels of the mineral exploration, gold production and investment sectors, as well as private consultants, the public sector and academia.

Ample question time and breaks will be featured in the programme for delegate networking in the exhibition area and at the Conference Dinner.

The exhibition

The exhibition has as its principal theme: the techniques and services which have played roles in exploration and development success. Delegates will have the opportunity to become acquainted with the latest developments in fields such as geological and regolith mapping, airborne and ground geophysics, geochemical analysis, data processing, drilling, resource estimation, mine planning, contract mining, project/equity financing, tenement management, consulting and equipment/information supply.

Exhibitors are expected from throughout the service, supply and government sectors while a proportion of booths will be allocated to mining and exploration companies on a first come, first served basis for the purpose of corporate promotion. Presenting companies are encouraged to display drill core, maps and sections.

Buffet lunches, morning and afternoon teas and continuous coffee will be served in the exhibition area together with welcome drinks on the evening of 11 November, guaranteeing maximum networking opportunities between exhibitors and delegates.
